ON THE FARM

This column is worth more than $2.00 a year to you. Subscribe for the Gazette.

Keep your hens from straying over on the land of your neighbor. Be particular about this if he has any crop growing there.

Light, dry soil, not overrich, suits the pea. Sow as early as ground can be worked and again every ten days for successive.

After all, it is the producing power of the farm that determines the boy in his going or staying. Show him there's money in it, and he will stick to the old farm like a sand-bag to a sheep's tail.

Any number of discontented farmers have spent enough time looking around at other places to have tried off the mortgage on their old place.

If the preparation of the seed bed, the selection of seed and the planting have been well done, the cultivation of the corn crop will be easy and will accomplish its best results.

This is the month when cows go to pasture through a large part of the country. Give them a good start. Keep them in good heart till they have really made the change from hay to grass. It will pay.

With the common knowledge of the earning of the farm books has come a desire to keep more fowls and make their keeping a special department of the farm operations.

We think it is always best to plant early for late potatoes and then work frequently to kill weeds and conserve moisture and warm up the ground and then plant until about the middle of June.

All rubbish about the place that would harbor insects and other pests should be cleaned up and burned. If it has not already been done, hotbeds and cold frames should be cleaned up and soil prepared for bedding.

To prevent disease, keep the hens at work by making them scratch for their grain food. Overfeeding is the cause of bowel diseases in the summer, or rather, too much concentrated food is given and not enough of that which is bulky. If the quarters are kept clean there is little danger of contagious disease unless an addition is made to the flock by bringing a bird from some other farm.

A visit to a first-class dairy farm in these days will show how every modern invention is seized upon and applied to expedite the business of caring for the animals and milk. The stables are almost as cleanly as parlors, while everything is carried on so systematically and methodically that there is a great contrast between the methods of to-day and the old time.

A well-ventilated building is worth keeping painted. Well done and often as needed, painting will add to the durability and good looks of the building. A farmer should himself be able to paint a barn or other out-buildings. Autumn is a good time for this kind of work.

Rather oddly, while dairy cows seem to show an instinctive aversion to humans and rough handling in their caretakers and will shrink in their milk if this becomes the rule, they do not mind whistling a song in the least, but seem rather to enjoy it.

Every farmer should yearly set aside a generous plot of ground for the children to cultivate and should instruct and interest them in the care of it, for they will not take up its cultivation of themselves, because—well, that is not human nature! But once revealed to them the pleasure and satisfaction and propagating plants, and they will be very quick to follow it up thereafter.

A garden, in reality, an endless source of amusement and entertainment for young and old alike, as soon as they come to be interested in it. It is art and nature striving together to outdo each other in the attempt to please the onlooker. It affords something new daily to wonder at and admire, and so draws closer to nature and world of wonders out of doors.

Every man knows that the man behind the cow has a lot to do with her yield and her well-being, as much so as the man in front. The milker can ruin a cow just as well as the feeder can. It is not only the decreased milk yield that makes the poor milker an expensive piece of furniture, but the leaching of milk in theudder encourages udder troubles, and in time will make the small yield a chronic habit in the cow.

Thousands of fruit trees will be set from season to season, and it is safe to say that many hundreds of them will be improperly set, the main fault being with the preparation of the tree before it is set. Time was when it was generally thought necessary to preserve each tiny root possessed by the tree and spread them out carefully before covering them with soil. It is now known that the trees grow much better if the roots are shortened to about six inches.

Not so many years ago "farmer" was as scornful a slang term as could be applied to anybody who blundered, stumbled or got in bad." But what would the average man in the streets say to-day, if somebody shouted at him "You farmer!" Wouldn't he throw his chest out and spring a smile as broad as if he owned a gold mine? He certainly would. The farmer doesn't wear his layson in his hair any longer. He sells it and buys an automobile.

GATHERED UP.

A well-bred man avoids many ups and downs in life.

Some folks find out how far a dollar will go by seeing how far they can go on a dollar.

I am always content with that which happens, for I think that what God chooses is better than what I choose—Epictetus.

There is but little chance for the one who can do little of everything and not much of anything. Contentment is the keynote of success these days.

"I'll be ready in a minute," she said to her husband.

"You needn't hurry now," he called up some time later. "I'd had that I shall have to share again."—Detroit Free Press.

Without thought, grace, deliberate, self-conscious thought, life will run shadowed in every channel. Every active day needs to build foundations downward through habitude of quiet thought.

The Bride.—That nasty Mrs. Jones, next door, said I'd better try this biscuits on the dog before I gave 'em to you. The Groom.—Hasn't she got a mean disposition? Why, I thought she was fond of dogs!—Cleveland Leader.

Our business is now to make the most of this great and beautiful experiment of living—to leave behind us flowers for memory and fruit for use—to make our life a harmony, our ending a serenity and our awakening an eternal joy. John Dug Hopps.

"Stand up, McNulty," said the police magistrate. "Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"I'm not guilty," he said. "I didn't hear him." "I'm afraid it's needful as can't tell that you hear him." replied McNulty.

"I hear him, doctor," said my friend Brown, whom you have been treating so long for liver trouble, has had a fit of stomach trouble," said one of the physician's patients.

"Don't you believe all you hear," replied the doctor. "When I treat a man for liver trouble, he dies of liver trouble."

Everybody's.

"Cesar," said a good-natured gentleman to his colored man, "I did not know till today that you had been whipped last week."

"I didn't know, Massa," replied Cesar. "I know'd it at the time."

"Would it be any harm to deceive her about my age?" inquired the elderly millionaire.

"Probably not."

"I'm 60. How would it do to confess to 50?"

"I think your chances would be better with her if you claimed 75."—Washington Herald.

Whether in the case of neighbors or members of the same household, it holds that when two people set out to see how mean they can be they set to succeed, surpassing the other by a good tap every turn in the game, to the increasing wrath and discomfiture of both parties concerned.

Many a boy or man has been able to live a clean and decent life because of a feeling of self-respect—a regard for the worth and sanctity of his own personality—from consideration of a family record to be found in him he has felt just pride. Fortunately indeed are those who have an anchor of this type when times of stress and temptation come on.

My friends, if in the deep and quiet of your lives you listen closely, you will hear a voice that bids you go forth and take part in the great movements for the uplift and betterment of the world. You will hear a voice that bids you go forth and be giants, towering in spiritual stature far above all soul-seeking and petty individual interests. Hearken with ears of your heart, and you will hear a voice that bids you go forth and prove by the mighty stature of your life that there are giants in the earth of our day.—Rev. Waldo Adams Ames.

HAVE IT ALL.

An old Scotchman who was threatened with blindness consulted an oculist.

"Will you have a little stimulant?" inquired the doctor.

The old Scotchman smacked his lips in eager anticipation.

"Oh, ay, I'll tak' a drink o' anything you have handy," was the quick rejoinder.

"Ah, that's the trouble," explained the oculist. "You'll have to stop drinking, or you'll lose your eyesight."

The old chap pondered a moment.

"A' week, doctor, it does much mair: I have seen ev'rythin' that's worth seein', anyway."

Wife Loves Him Too Much.

Gustav Wack announced today that he was going to his suit for divorce from his wife, Annie, because she loved him so much that he was unable to work.

He told of her schemes to keep him home, on one occasion locking him in a cupboard for several hours and standing on the outside begging him not to go just yet.

"I lost a couple of good jobs because she would not let me go to work," he said. "She would call up on the phone and talk for 20 minutes, until central cut her off."

"She would keep the alarm clock ringing at night, when I needed sleep, to keep me awake so she could talk to me. I'm all worn out, and I can't stand it any longer."

Yesterday she went away,
Mother did, with Dad;
All her room is cold and dark;
All the chairs look sad;

All the pictures seem to frown:
The bed is cold and high.
There isn't even any lap
With which to sit.

Tonight she'll be back again,

Are all their own away.

Among the new-mown hay;

Among the hunking of the corn,
Where I'll thought die, and good are born.

ON THE FARM

This column is worth more than $2.00 a year to you. Subscribe for the Gazette.

In this department to which we devote much time and for which we receive many pleasing compliments we have been devoting no time or space to sheep but a fine little flock of sheep and lambs at the farm of Frank P. Fay, Broad street, suggests that an interest might be awakened along this line and we give our readers a few points this week.

Sheep do not interfere with, but fit nicely into modern farming.

Protect sheep from cold rains. The fleece will hold a large amount of water, and it takes a long time to dry.

Sheep are finding new homes on many of the best farms in the country; as farmers are fast learning, that the demand for high-class mutton is rapidly increasing.

There are many breeds of legs and all have their particularities; but any hog is a good hog that will keep on growing into money every day. However, no breed will do this without intelligent care.

Yelling at a young horse that is learning only confuses him and gets him excited, and if the load is too heavy you make a barker and a spoiled horse right there.

The scrub farmer will do well to confine his attention to scrub stock and not branch into the business of raising full bloods, which do not well must have first class care.

The mulled orchard or berry patch means not only a checking of the growth and a reducing of the productive capacity of tree and bush, but it also means an immodest harborage and place of retreat for the many insect enemies.

Young chicks must keep their feet dry, especially nights. A good coop can be made of a dry-goods box turned down on the side, and raised an inch or so from the ground. Put on a roof, a door with hinges, and a button to close it, and cover the whole with a good roofing paper.

When weaning a litter, take only the strongest away at first, then a few more, and soon, so that the sow may gradually dry off. By this method the sow may be saved much suffering and the weaker pigs given a good start.

Soil land is very good for almost all crops if the season is seasonably wet and other conditions are favorable. One of the worst troubles with corn in soil land is that the earwigs living in the sod destroy much of the young corn. By plowing soil land for corn in late fall or early winter many of the earwigs will be destroyed.

It is quite generally admitted today that some effective system of hant ventilation is necessary if cattle and other stalled live stock are to kept in healthy condition. The germs of tuberculosis and other diseases thrive best in barns which are not well ventilated. Fresh air and sunlight are easily the best germ destroyers known to man. Both may be obtained at a nominal cost.

Physical culture, father, is perfectly lovely. To develop the arms I grasp this end by one end and move it slowly from right to left.

When they don't throw away those cigars?

Never! I threw away a box of good cigars the last time I quit smoking, and it taught me a lesson.—Houston Post.

Physical culture, father, is perfectly lovely. To develop the arms I grasp this end by one end and move it slowly from right to left.

Well, well," exclaimed her father, what won't science discover? If that red-headed straw at the other end would be sweeping?—Illustrated Bits.

There are two kinds of criticism, the one tears down, demoralizes and leaves despair or desolation in its wake; the other is constructive,批评, which builds up, creates and invigorates; the kind that not only picks out the flaws, discards imperfections, but suggests a remedy for them; the well-constructed criticism is the only kind that will help.

The Father of His Country, in his farewell address, which he left as a precious legacy to his countrymen, earnestly exhorts them to abstain from being involved in entangling alliances with other nations and to cultivate friendship with all of them. This solemn admonition was reflected by Jefferson in his immortal address, which has been handed down from one administration to another as a sacred oracle, and has now acquired almost the force and authority of law.

There is no class of live stock that looks as well on the farm as a flock of well cared for sheep, and no other stock will take as good care of the farm. Sheep may be regarded as glorifiers of profit, for they eat almost all kinds of weeds and herbs. And, then, the weed seeds eaten by sheep will not germinate in the manure and when once destroyed by eating are entirely destroyed.

Until lately pen vines, the product of pen canneries, were a waste product, the handling of which involved a good deal of expense. As a result of experiments which have been conducted by the federal department of agriculture, it has been found that these vines can be made into a hat that is considered better than cloverleaf and is a satisfactory feed for cattle, horses and sheep, while they may be converted into a dairy which makes an excellent ration for dairy cows.

GATHERED UP.

Men's minds are as unlike as their faces.

A good teacher is better than a good speaker.

A teacher can lead us into the porch, but nature depends on self.

It is often more difficult to forget than it is to remember.

If a fellow gets to going down hill it seems as if everything were greased for the occasion.—Josh Billings.

GATHERED UP.

Some persons do first, think afterward
and repent forever.

The business of a promoter is to persuade your money into his pocket.

Never does a man show his lack of faith in his cause so much as when he is willing to lie for it.

The great question is not so much what money you have in your pocket as what you will buy with it.—Ruskin.

Mrs. Noobridge—Yes, dear, I was married last month. I'd like you to call on me and see the pretty little flat I have.
—Miss Jelisse—I've seen it, dear, my dear.

The Selection of Hyde Park recently voted not to grant any express permits to transport liquor, or drayage, licenses to sell liquor.

An exchange says there are two reasons
why some people don't mind their own business. One is that they haven't any mind, and the other is that they haven't any business.

Fair Girl—My father made his fortune
when he was a young man. Would you like to know how he did it?
Gallant Youth—Not particularly; but I would like to know if he still has it.—
Catholic News.

The right kind of a man with a per-shooter can take a man's mind off his business troubles and make things quicker than anything else in this bleak, cold world.

The Youth—Yes, I'm in business for myself, but I don't seem to be able to meet with any success.

The Sage—Nobody ever meets with success, young man. He must overtake it.—Philadelphia Press.

Visitor—So your boy is in college, is he,
Mr. Cortoske? Farmer—I can't say exactly. He's in their ball nine, and in another sonin' crew, an' in their jinnyzennin,
an' in their dormitory, but whether he's ever
in their college is morn' I kin tell out
by his letters.—Harper's Bazaar.

If the movement to house a town is to be successful, you must believe in it—you must do your part to help it. I am talking to you men, who read this article, to you men, who have been sitting back and waiting for the boom to arrive, but have not offered your assistance.

Hate never made any man happy. But in order to be unhappy, he does not need to be a hater. Simple dislike will sour all the milk in the coo-coo of cheerfulness.
Your choice is not restricted. If you do not like a man or do not love a woman, then, like a dog. Even a cat may be an inspirer of cheerfulness.

There is not a moment of any of our lives when nature is not producing some after scene, picture after picture, glory
after glory, and working still upon such expulsive and constant principles of the most perfect beauty that it is quite certain that it is all done for us and intended for our perpetual pleasure.—Ruskin.

Why is it that the "booster" movements
in Western towns and cities have been so successful? Why are these towns growing better and busier every day, and why is it so many Eastern towns are standing still? It is not because the former are more advantageously situated, but rather because of the enthusiasm—yes, more,
than that; it is the loyalty of their citizens.

Erasmus Wilson, editor of the Pittsburg Evening Gazette and Times, created a deal of amusement during his story of the fight against municipal corruption in that city by saying that out of the 170 city officers only 105 have been sent to the penitentiary—which is doing pretty well
—and that the chaplain of the institution
has the most remarkable looking congregation in the city.

OUT OF FORM.

"President Taft likes golf, and he plays
a fairly good game," said a Chevy Chase caddy. "A fairly good game, at least
when he's in form."

"He was out of form one day when he played here. He was last back from Cuba and I guess the voyage had upset him.

After some pretty bad work on the first two holes, he said apologetically to the caddy, a stranger from the East:

"I'm certainly out of form today. I've been on a sea voyage, you see. It must have upset me."

"Played before, have ye?" said the caddy.

"Breakin' up, chatty."

The famous painter Fuseli had a great contempt for chitter. One afternoon a party of friends paid a visit to his studio,
and after a few moments spent in looking at the pictures they seated themselves and proceeded to indulge in a long and perpetuous talk. At last, in one of the slight pauses, Fuseli said earnestly, "I had pork
for dinner today."

"Why, my dear Mr. Fuseli," exclaimed one of the startled group, "what an extremely odd remark!"

"It is?" said the painter ingeniously.

"Why, isn't it as interesting and important as anything that has been said for the last hour?"

A Social Botanist.

Guest—How seems your nice young man. What's his profession? Hostess—

—a social botanist. Guest—And what is that, pray? Hostess—Oh, we invite him especially to give attention

to our wallflowers.—Boston Transcript.

The Moisture.

"Does your wife cry when she gets angry?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Meekton. "It isn't the heat of her temper that distresses me so much as the humidity."

—Washington Star.

Ways to an Untimely End.

The catalogue of the ways and means

employed by otherwise sensible people to incur the risk of disease and an untimely end included running to catch trolley cars, breathing rapidly through the nose instead of deeply through the mouth, eating too hastily and overeating,

"slouching" instead of standing and walking in an erect attitude, unnecessary

and pestilential household, which goes blithely about carrying the germs

of disease, sleeping in ill ventilated

rooms and failing to protect food from

and other insects by proper screening.—Philadelphia Press.

ON THE FARM

This column is worth more than $2.00 a year to you. Subscribe for the Gazette.

Four seeds to the inch is a good rule in sowing peas in rows. The plants can be afterward thinned out to two to the inch.

Early peas do best on good, warm
loamy soil, not over-rich, but yet not poor when too rich, the growth runs more to vines than to peat.

It is better to keep fewer cattle and keep them well than to poorly care for a greater number.

What profits it a man if he raises a due number of chickens and then allows the middle man to get the biggest end of the profits

Nothing need be done on the farm
where sheep are kept—tufts of grass, weeds and aftermaths and old bits of feed can all be utilized and converted into wool and mutton.

Whether you are keeping sheep for pleasure or profit, your desires will be more fully met if your flock is of superior quality.

Every change in feeding should be gradual and with an eye open to note the results. It is no more our mission to keep the hogs healthy than it is to plan our equipment so that they may keep themselves so.

One of the chief causes of mortality
among chicks is feeding them too much shopping food, which often gets sour before it is eaten up, and therefore bound to cause disturbance of the bowels, and probably death.

In starting into the poultry business the average man or woman is apt to get very enthusiastic and attempt to do too much.

The better way is to start on a small basis and enlarge as your experience and ability will justify. The notion that most anybody can make a success of raising poultry on a large scale has been disproved time without number.

The modern packer utilizes every type of hog from the 55-pound pig up to the 700-pound boar or stag. In general, taking it one day with another, our experience is that the class of hog which sells best is advantage—the hog which makes the best average price one day with another,
week in and week out—is the one weighing 225 to 250 pounds, of good breeding, regardless of particular strain
or type, carrying good flesh and well marked for his weight.

Both methods of plowing manure under and surface applications are practiced, and each will have its advantages. Coarse, straw manure should be used by harrowing. Turned under it will be out of the way of cultivation, dry and furnish food for the roots of the plants as they extend downward.

No farm animal is more susceptible to disease than the hog. And no farm animal is so hard to treat or so liable to die
as the hog once he is attacked by disease.

Often disease comes, takes the whole herd and leaves the owner with only valuables he was not more careful in caring for his hogs or that he had not hesitated before turning new stock in with the herd. The best plan in raising stock is to be eternally vigilant in preventing disease.

Pure, wholesome milk kept in a clean cellar or milk house, where the temperature is not over seventy degrees, will keep sweet for thirty-six hours, and will not need to be thickened forty-eight hours.

Otherwise something is wrong with the milk.

deal of amusement during his story of the
fight against municipal corruption in that

The Great Pyramid, Its Relation to Halley's Comet, and the Death of King Edward, The VII," will be the subject of the sermon by Rev. William Hyde of Trinity church, next Sunday morning.

The Parish Guild of Trinity church met at the residence of Rev. William Hyde, Tuesday evening. Reports came in from the recent entertainment and sale at Lincoln Hall and it was found that the Fair had realized something over $100 in expenses. A vote of thanks was passed to the ladies, to those on the various committees, to all those who had taken part in the entertainments and to others, who by their excellent work had contributed to the success of the affair. Refreshments were served, a very pleasant evening was spent and the meeting adjourned at a late hour.

A meeting of the Indian Literary Circle was held at the home of Mrs. Alice Cook, Monday evening, May 10th. A paper on Patrick Henry was read by Miss Mary Hopkins and one by Miss Charlotte Hubbard on "The Patriot Women of America"; both papers were well received.

After intermission Mr. Hyde gave a due rendering of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Ballad of Fleckengang" and C. T. Crane a reading of Parkman's description of "The Battle of Bushy Run." At the close of the program the committee for the closing social, reported, an invitation from Mrs. and Mr. Crane to meet with them. Thursday evening May 14th, with the privilege of inviting one guest each, our closing socials in past years have been among the the most pleasant meetings of the year and we anticipate a very enjoyable evening at this coming one.

—Wanted—Any person receiving copies of the genealogical work issued by the Lewis Historical Publishing Co., for whom there is any misunderstanding in regard to having subscribed for the same, please address Box 6, South Weymouth, for concerted action.

—A delegation of thirty one members of Wompatuck Encampment recently visited Mr. Washington Encampment of South Boston and witnessed the exemplification of the work of the Royal Purple degree upon several candidates. The work was exceptionally well done, and the "boys" were highly entertained.

—H. Hoffman, the new owner of the C. M. Dyer estate on Broad street, has by many exterior improvements to the buildings, rearrangement of landscape, clearing the pond and installing a beautiful causeway in it, made his new home one of the most attractive places in town.

—At the last meeting of Wompatuck

Encampment, I. O. O. F., those attending were gratified to see the family face of Sister Josephine A. Cushing once more in its usual place after his long sickness, and congratulations were in order. Remarks were made by several members tending toward an anniversary celebration to be held October 27th. This encampment was instituted in 1875, being among the oldest of similar bodies in this state.

good job this week in regrading the side walk and curb stone at the corner of Broad and Shawmutt streets and it now

conforms to the street, and aged and in-

Habit From the Dungeon.

Couverts who were forced to drag about a ball and chain at the gallows could often be detected when released by their habit of dragging one foot behind the other. —O'Rourke

continued to conduct life in America

after his English sympathies had also in

after years a habit which told a like sad story. One who knows him said:

—When walking abstractly and mechanically he always went a short distance and then retraced his steps no

matter how wide a stretch he had before him. It was always three paces

forward, turn and three paces back

exact to the vest of his coat which he

wore a week ago.

—The cutting room of the George E.

Keith Co. factory No. 8, has been discontinued at this factory, since owing to a large increase in their output of women's shoes.

The firm decided that every available space was necessary for the making, consequently the cutting is now being done at Campbell's Milldale and Boston. The lasters have had their quarters moved up to the top floor adjoining the stitching room and the new system in good working order, a large increase is expected in the daily output.

—A collection for the support of the Seminary at Brighton was taken in on the Immaculate Conception church, Sunday,

—Edward Anglin of Cambridge was the guest of relatives on Pleasant street,

last Sunday and Monday.

—During the stay of the Detroit Club

of the American Base Ball League in Boston, this week, Owen Bush, the fast short stop of that team, has been the guest of Leo Howley of Broad street.

Bush was formerly a member of the Indians club of the American Association

but two years ago joined the ranks of the Major League. While with Indians, he always went a short distance and then retraced his steps no

matter how wide a stretch he had before him. It was always three paces

forward, turn and three paces back

exact to the vest of his coat which he

wore a week ago.

Under this heading we have tried to give those who are interested in live stock, gardens and field such matters as we think will be of interest and profit and have been encouraged by favorable comments on it.

This week we deviate from the usual class of matter to say something more particularly local. We have within our borders about 65,000 acres of land and most of it is adapted to crop raising and we are glad to note that soil has been turned up this season which has not felt the ploughshare before. Growing seasons and with a good growing season much will be done to solve the problem of the "High Cost of Living" and people will be fed from our soil and at a reasonable cost.

We are looking forward to an unusual exhibit of the product of Weymouthmen at the annual fair of the Weymouth Agricultural and Industrial Society this fall and learn with pleasure that Mr. Pearson, superintendent of schools, has interested the boys and girls of the schools in having a special exhibit of vegetables and flowers of their own raising.

Two years ago we offered some Gazette prizes along these lines and one entrepreneur had captured a $5.00 Gazette prize and several other prizes offered by the Society and we now make an offer of two prizes to the boys who will make the best exhibit of four kinds of vegetables of his own raising, a first prize of $3.00 and a second prize of $2.00. Prizes to be awarded by the Society committee.

Shoe Industry.

From about every place where the boot and shoe trade is a section of the country comes reports of the stop put to retail trade by the continued cold weather. Summer goods that ought long ago to have been sold and in wearing are still on the shelves. The warmer weather must come it is believed, so there is a steady trade in anticipation of the needs, but the usual rush of business is lacking.

Although the market has been thus affected, hope has not failed. The trade believes that the goods on hand will be disposed of when the weather becomes warmer, but meanwhile the oxford and low-tops have not had their linings.

The situation of the selling end of the trade continues to have its influence on the manufacturing end, and much of the delay in placing orders may be credited to the backward spring; at the same time the question of price charged for production is having an effect. Some factories are busy to capacity; others are in need of orders soon; one manufacturer reports that his business is several thousand dollars worth better off than at the corresponding time last year; while others have orders on hand to keep plants running only a few weeks. Fall business is not developing properly; supplementary and duplicate orders for late summer delivery or for fall goods are not being given out, though samples for the spring of 1911 are selling easily.

The uncertainty of the seasons which in recent years have been so delayed and over-lapping is causing dealers to wonder just when to commence buying and how much to buy. That it would be possible to place their orders at advantageous terms has been asserted, and now it is reported that some manufacturers have accepted contracts at figures which were below current prices, and having made such concessions are not lacking for orders. In contrast to these manufacturers who refuse to shade prices. Between these extremes are the buyers. Which way they will turn depends on the next few weeks, but so long as manufacturers make concessions there is little reason to expect new business without such bargains.

The production of men's heavy, medium grade shoes is slow, orders being small in volume and few in number. There is a better demand for a better grade in satin-grain, chrome, etc., and medium and fine-grade are in fair condition. Women's goods are yet in need of more orders to make their production a factor in trade.

Manufacturers of women's shoes have been studying the present markets and some are deciding that the ankle-strap pump is not a desirable article and that another season will see so many of them; that some grades will sell and there will be a demand, but the best lines will not include them, the two-toed and three-toed oxford, with its ribbons, being more attractive and satisfactory. If the vamp is made a trifle longer, as is proposed, the ankle-strap will not be necessary. There is some opposition against lengthening the vamp, and it is estimated that the slight increase will not be so serious as was anticipated—Boston Transcript.

NOT BOILED BY KINDNESS.

A stout woman entered a crowded car and took hold of a strap directly in front of a man seated in the corner. As the car started she lunged against his newspaper and trod heavily on his toes. As quickly as he could extricate himself he rose and offered her his seat.

"You are very kind, sir," she said, panting for breath.

"Not at all, madam," he replied. "It's not kindness. It's simply self-defense."

NOT BOILED BY KINDNESS.

Real Estate Agent—I tell you, sir, the death rate in this suburb is lower than in any other part of the country. Near Victim—I believe you wouldn't be found dead here myself.—Chicago Journal.

NOT MUCH.

She—Well, I hope you are going to write a letter to the man who insulted you. He can act—or what, make him a present of my autograph? Not much.—Pete Melo.

WHAT DISGRACE WE HAVE MERITED.

It is almost always in our power to re-establish our reputation.—La Roche.

SUSPENDED ANIMATION.

What is suspended animation?

It's what happens at an afternoon tea when the women have been talking about cutters the room.—Puck.

CRAMPED.

Knickers—How large is their suburban place?—Boots—Large! Why, they have to have folding beds for the flowers—New York Sun.

BLESS THE FOOLS! What would we do if every one were wise?—Antrim.

GATHERED UP.

We accomplish more by prudence than by force.—Tartuffe.

Every man should keep a fair sized cemetery in which to bury the faults of his friends.—Henry Ward Beecher.

A man's money is like his blood—it is most useful when it is circulating in the interests of life.—Rev. C. C. Woods.

We may make God's will our own and find the paths of righteousness the paths of joy as well.—Rev. W. Q. Roselle.

Anger is a pure waste of vitality. It helps nobody and hinders everybody. It is always foolish and always disgraceful.

That man said he never forgets a favor.

He speaks truly," answered Bings.

"He did me a favor 15 years ago and has been talking about it ever since."—Stray Stories.

Did you ever notice that when a man calls a job well enough done that it hasn't been done as well as it might have been? A good many times, "good enough" means precisely half enough.

Bellemeen—Do you have to care for the dog?—Nurse-girl.—No, the missus says I'm too young and inexperienced. I only look after the children.—Life.

I believe that the empire of sensuous must example and the empire of love support it. The man who lives for himself has the invincible purpose of the universe against him.

Guest at a restaurant.—Excuse me, Sir, can you let me come to the telephone? You have been there twenty minutes without saying a word.

—Sorry, sir, but I'm talking to my wife.—Pete Melo.

The man who invests his money in well-conducted local enterprises, giving preference to his fellow citizens is really doing more for his locality than the one who makes a loud noise and stops there.

Although the market has been thus affected, hope has not failed. The trade believes that the goods on hand will be disposed of when the weather becomes warmer, but meanwhile the oxford and low-top have not had their linings.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The Memorial Day exercises will be held on Friday afternoon at quarter of a mile west of the High School.

A large band class is studying ratio-

and proportion.

The Senior class is holding a meeting in Room 101. After some discussion it was decided to hold the 15th of Boston
and not the class photographer. Upon the report of the motto committee
the motto "Virtus" was selected as the motto of the graduation songs.

Mr. M. W. Weymouth and Mr. Spain
is singing in the music periods.

Mr. Nease has been elected president of the
M. A. C. and the music teacher.

Alumni are relieved by the fact that the graduation for which they are now preparing will be the last for the year.

It is to be held on Saturday, June 10, at the High School at Bridgeport, Connecticut.

It is the first time that the privilege of using the Chapel building and field
is being given to the players and spectators is applied.

The class of 1910, Abington High School, Abington, Mass., Class of 1910, is as follows: President, Wm. F. Phillips;

Vice-president, Everett L. Ladd; clerk, J. H. Bates;

Treasurer, and they were balloted for and elected.

Mr. Ladd thought, however,
that the labor and honor of being
class should be divided among the members; he had served six years and would now withdraw in favor of someone else and E. W. Hunt was elected for that position.

Talk was next in order and the retiring president spoke of the work of the past and what was hoped for in the future and then introduced Mr. Phillips, who spoke of the growing importance of Weymouth

as a factor in making a greater Boston
and the possibility of its being the largest and most important city in the country
within the present century. W. P. Denbrower responded for the board of trade and asked for a hearty cooperation in its efforts to provide residences for the people who would like to settle in Weymouth.

M. E. Hawes spoke of the agricultural possibilities of the town and suggested that efforts should be made to feed our people from our soil and thus retain

a large part of the money in town which now goes out of the State. E. J. Fletcher and Thomas B. Wade, both members of the association, responded to a call and Mr.

Fletcher's remarks were along the line of legislation governing trade and collection of debts and Mr. Wade followed in somewhat the same direction.

The meeting adjourned at 10:30, all feeling that it was an evening well spent.

"Taps" for John Fennell.

John Fennell passed quietly away from his earthly home 635 Broad Street, East Weymouth, last Saturday night. Mr.
Fennell was born in Ireland 70 years ago
last January but when John was a mere infant the family emigrated to this country and East Weymouth became their home
and in nearly sixty years of life in East Weymouth as boy and man but few men have been better known or had a wider circle of friends and acquaintances than John Fennell.

He had hardly attained his majority when the Civil War came on but he had become a true American citizen and went to the front in the 25th Mass. Infantry, was hard service in camp and field, and
was severely wounded by a rifleball passing through the ankle in the siege of Petersburg.

When the war was over Mr. Fennell returned to East Weymouth, married and settled down to his life work. The home he established became an ideal one and in later years has been the center of a national circle of no mean ability.

Mr. Fennell has always taken a deep interest in political and social affairs, an active worker in Republican campaigns and sundry organizations, notably so in Reynolds Post 58, G. A. R. and Division
9, A. O. H.

Funeral services and burial took place on Tuesday morning. At the close of brief services at the home under escort of Reynolds Post 58, G. A. R. and delegation from Div. 9, A. O. H., the remains were taken to the Immediate Conception church
where extensive services were held. Rev.
James W. Allison, Rev. Maurice Lynch of the home church and Rev. Fr. Fitzgerald of Braintree officiating. The choir, Misses Nellie Noonan director, assisted in all the service.

The ushers at the church were John W.
Cronin, Joseph A. Kelly and Robert E.
Croker.

The burial was at St. Francis Xavier cemetery in which place the remains were escorted by Reynolds Post 58 and followed by a long line of mourning friends and relatives.

The bearers were J. Q. Spear, B. F.
Thomas and T. H. Walker of the Post and
P. Quinlan, J. Cullen, F. Noonan of Div.
9, A. O. H., P. Coffey, T. Conahan and Ed. Tobin also representing Div. 9 as specials detail.

In the absence of Commander Drake,
P. C. Walsh Turner and Chaplain Dunbar rendered the G. A. R. funeral service at the grave in a very impressive manner.

Taps were sounded and John Fennell, a soldier, a loyal citizen and a good neighbor
had entered into rest.

Mr. Fennell is survived by three sons,
William, John and Joseph W. and three daughters, Alice, wife of William J. Fitzsimmons, Nellie and Mabel.

Weymouth Grocers' Association.

The Weymouth Grocers' Association
was celebrated the 6th of June on Wednesday
and nineteen years old its close.

The association held a meeting in Room
101. After some discussion it was decided to hold the 15th of Boston.

There was a change in the program and the customary services will be held at the Clapp Memorial grounds and building.

A dress parade of the Post and Sons of Veterans will be held on the field and short exercises in the building will close the events of Memorial Day for 1910.
